Much Preparation Already in Progress For Biggest Day

Dad's Day is not far in the future. Plans are now being made to insure a big success. For the last three years he College has set aside a day for the celebration in honor of the old graduates of St. Stanislaus and their Dads. This year Dad's Day will be celebrated on November 6th. Much preparation is always needed for this great event, which is considered by all to be one of the biggest happenings of the school year. Circular letters will be sent out notifying and inviting the old Grads to again pay a visit to the campus to enjoy and to visit to their old school house, and to feel once more the happiness of being a school boy. Two former presidents of St. Stanislaus college, Bros. Stanislaus and Lambert, who were well known and respected by all who knew them, will honor the day by their attendance.

On Monday, October 10th, Class 28 met in the scientific room to discuss the ring proposition. This meeting was preceded by much comment and enthusiasm. Mr. Coleman, representing the Hausmann Jewelry company, of New Orleans, showed a few attractive samples of rings that he has manufactured for other schools. After much discussion, the class selected three rings, two of which were to be

Day Scholars' Sodality.
Saturday morning, at 8:45, a meeting of the Day Scholars Sodality of the Blessed Virgin was held in the chapel. Many of the old members from last year were present, and the names of the new boys were taken. These new boys will be received on the 8th of December. * * *

It could be plainly seen that hunting season had opened, when Bro. Peter and Mr. Emile J. Gex went for their first hunt Saturday evening.

The meeting lasted 7 days, the attendance was good and a revival came to the church. Twenty new additions to the church were made. The candidates received for Baptism will have the ordinance conferred on them in the Baptistry of the First Baptist church of Bay Louis, on the evening of the first Sunday night in November, 7 p. m. The public is cordially invited; about a dozen will be baptized.

Sporing News.

Sunday, October 16th, Stanislaus played the Calvary Troop 100 from New Orleans, on the college field. The visitors came over filled with the confidence of winning, and with the headwork of "Deuce" Demeageaux, a former star quarterback of Loyola, and Nungesser, a line plunger par excellence, they realized their confident desire and kept their team's slate clean. Tough experience was agains them the Rockchaws fought from the first sound of the whistle until the gun ended the game. If the Red Devils had had half the experience of their opponents, the result might have read victory instead of defeat in today's paper. But the fact remains that it takes more than two games for a team composed of first year men to round into form. Be-

PERSHING ON DEFENSE.

Gen. John J. Pershing urges an "adequate system of national defense" as the "surest means of preserving honorable peace." In an article, published recently in McCall's Magazine, he declares that our national wealth is not a protection against war, but rather a temptation to other nations.

Gen. Pershing does not desire war, but he thinks if our rights "are not worth protecting they are not worth having." He is not a militarist in any sense of the word saying himself, "I have spent my life as an honest advocate of peace because I detest war."

The problem of national defense is not easily answered. The national defense plans, inaugurated in 1920, will mean much in the event of hostilities. As we understand the matter, trained officers are to be in reserve always, and men will find themselves competently trained and when they go into battle, competently led.

SIGN OF THE TIMES.

While many are awaiting the return of the so-called boom of two years since to give property value and build our towns and fill the waste spaces, the realization comes all the keener we are building all the while waiting for the arrival of the ship we never sent out.

This is particularly noted in the gulf cities sections.
A casual tour will reveal the fact many dwellings and other buildings are rearing their walls upward and there is general trend for values of more stability and better and more permanent improvements.

On any street in Bay St. Louis and in suburban territory it is hardly possible to get out of sight of one new building if another does not loom up.

This constant and steady building of better places to live in and to do business is a healthy and substantial sign and one it might be well not to lose sight of.

A NEW DEMAND FOR OUR LANDS.

It appears the dairy cow is going to help solve the solution how to use our limitless space of cut-over lands, and already there should be a healthy demand and to secure such lands early will prove of advantage.

Repeated proof is at hand—our dairy woods land will grow anything, so to speak. The pecan, satsuma, grapefruit and other such crops are remunerative.
Live stock thrives better, perhaps, in some local ties than others. But in all South Mississippi, with no severe winters, there are many opportunities.

Since land and stock are products that are in demand, and since the demand is increasing, it is well to secure the land early.

LURE OF MISSISSIPPI GULF COAST.

Conversation with more than one hotel manager along the Gulf Coast reveals reasonable anticipation for a record winter business, with other evidence the advent of winter tourists and visitors will be earlier than usual and in larger numbers.

One hotel, completing a building annex of no small proportion, reports while fully one thousand people were turned away last winter for lack of accommodation facilities, from inquiries received earlier than usually, it is probable, even with added space, there will be insufficient room.

Another, one of the major hotels, reports from December 1st to 15th, the influx will practically test the house. The last two years have witnessed the Mississippi Gulf Coast advertised like never before, this section now nationally known with opportunities new and more promising than in sections that formerly held the focus of the spotlight.

It is well preparation for this influx is in process and that none who may knock at our portals will fail to seek entrance. Mississippi's Gulf Coast is known not only for its charm and delight but for its accessibility, practically a day and night journey from almost any central portion of the country. These combine to attract and interest. The peninsular State is too far distant and the Pacific State, with its exhausting trip, is well nigh like the fabled trip from earth to moon.

The name of the Mississippi Gulf Coast is one to conjure with and where nature lures and holds.

OUR ROADS AND POSSIBILITIES.

Visitors who have occasion to drive over the highways and by-ways of Hancock are unanimous in the expression this county has the most complete network and best roads to be found in any section of the State, not a road shows lack of attention and proper maintenance. This is noteworthy and more so since much of this road surface will be used in connection with the early building and subsequent completion of free bridges over Chef, Rigolets and Pearl river.

The writer recently had occasion to travel by auto over considerable territory in a neighboring State, and nowhere was it noted the system of marking roads in any ways approached that of Hancock county. Hancock has an elaborate and complete system of marking, the stranger needs only know how to read in order to travel when in doubt.

Notwithstanding this splendid scheme of things, our authorities are fully in accord with the opinion that hardsurfacing, such as concrete roads, is near at hand, that is, circumstance of increasing heavy travel, makes it imperative and the time is not far distant when we may reasonably look forward to this permanent improvement.
Concrete or almost any other kind of hard-surfaced roads spells economy to say nothing of lasting satisfaction.

ENFORCEMENT OF STOCK LAW IMPERATIVE.

The term blessing in disguise has been used to the extent it has well-nigh become a hackneyed expression, however, it might again be used in instance both fitting and expressive. Reference is made to the State stock law which went into effect on the first of the month, and which applies to incorporated villages, towns and cities as well as to the rural districts. While it was originally intended to safeguard livestock from the ravages of disease and to vouchsafe for better care, it will also prove a boon to organized communities, where population centers in groups and civic attention is not to be deterred by invasion from the woods and the private cow stable.

The hope is expressed the law will be rigidly enforced without fear nor favor, and that such towns as Bay St. Louis and Waveland, to say nothing of our beautiful inland communities, will not only remain intact but numerous protected places where lawn and garden mean so much.

Property must be safeguarded. Our public places and streets are not to be exposed, as in the past, to destructive cattle. Provisions of the State law should be safe and sure to meet every requirement for a general as well as for a local enforcement.

The hope is expressed our State stock law will be enforced to the very letter, and without exception; enforced regardless of cost and no official we feel will wish to shirk his duty.

BRUTALITY, INDEED.

The "king of the bootleggers" is in trouble. For some months he has had his trials and sentences for various offenses before the law, but this time, it is a serious matter.

George Remus, of Cincinnati, had been served with divorce suit papers by his wife. She was on her way to consult her lawyer just before the hearing was set, riding in a taxi, when she saw her husband chasing the vehicle in his car. Finally, the taxicab was forced to the curb, and as it stopped Mrs. Remus ran into a park, with her husband behind her.

Then, says the news accounts, "seizing her by the wrist, he pulled her close to him, pressed a revolver against her abdomen and fired once. As another motorist hurried up in response to the woman's scream for help the husband stepped back into his own car and was driven away." Later he surrendered.

George, we presume, will try to come clear. His crime has every element of murder. Unless he gets the sentence his brutality deserves, most people will conclude that Ohio has no law that is effective against murderers. We do not ordinarily comment on murder cases but this outrage against a defenseless woman is so rotten that nothing can hurt the case of the defendant.

CARRYING COAL TO NEW CASTLE.

The fact Mississippi is one of the leading cotton-producing States of the country, and the number of cotton mills operating within its borders might be counted upon the fingers of one hand, while the bulk of heavy staple is shipped more formerly to New England States and now as a whole not so far distant, only to be shipped back as a manufactured product and sold to the producer, gives rise to thought and comment.

That this condition has always existed is no reason for its justification. We are told by a resident of Bay St. Louis recently returned from a visit to Spartanburg, S. C., that there are forty-five cotton mills actively operating in the one county where that city is located.

Good for that section and for the South. But since a superabundance of cotton is grown in this State more mills and more looms and shuttles might be in operation.
The conclusion is logical. More paper mills and more cotton-mills will keep millions of dollars annually in the South that now go away to foreign sections never to return.

KANSAS AND FRANCE

—The Difference—

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1927.)

On either side of the Santa Fe express, in which this is written, the corn fields and farmhouses of Kansas fly past. It is a country unlike any through which the writer drove a few weeks ago in France on the way from Paris to see Clemenceau in his little cottage on the Atlantic at Lejard, not far from Bordeaux.

The trip through France, made in an automobile, was as rapid as this trip by train. In France you drive your automobile as fast as you like, but take care you hurt nobody.

French roads are wide and straight, the car used by this writer came from Paris, 900 kilometers, 540 miles, in one day and did easily the 400 miles from Paris to Lejard between breakfast and dinner.

French drivers go rapidly, but carefully; if they hit anybody the law hits them. A member of the Chamber of Deputies went to jail for a year, and the influence of his friends could not save him. He struck a child, B.
Forman, of Rochester, N. Y., can tell you of a French chauffeur accused of intoxication, sent to jail for ten years. He killed a child. Mr. Forman saw the thing happen.

Here in Kansas you see great tractors providing power, machinery cutting and binding corn, great engines winnowing, threshing wheat, and tying the grain in sacks, all in one operation.

In France occasionally you would see a peasant and his wife cutting their grain with sickles in small fields of irregular shape. Fields were harvested with scythes. Here and there teams of horses drew mowing machines. Power-driven agricultural machinery was not seen between Paris and Lejard.

Where mowers had passed you might see old grandmother and her little grandchild bending over, picking up wisps of grain with the right hand, putting them in aprons held by the left hand.

A hundred such gleaners were seen in a day's drive. They were less fortunate than Ruth, their gleanings meagre. There was no Boaz to command his young men, saying, "Let her glean even among the sheaves and reproach her not; and let fall also some of the handfuls on purpose for her and leave them that she may glean them, but rebuke her not."

With hand rakes the old grandmother and the little girl could have gathered all the gleanings in a short time, but that evidently was not allowed. Gleaning must be done by hand, the old woman stoop, and stoop all day long to pick up stray straws. When the grain had gone from the field an old shepherd would bring his little band of sheep. These would walk through the stubble eating the over-ripe grain that had fallen from the ears. Other bands of sheep led by an old man or woman with dogs to help, ate then grass along the highway edge. No sheep ever strayed onto the road before the automobiles. Dogs prevented that, and the sheep seemed trained. Beautiful animals, admirably kept, they waste nothing in France.

Here in rich America you ride miles through unending fields of corn or grain, pass great herds of heavy steers, deep in grass and tens of thousands of acres not used.

In France they use every foot of ground, waste nothing, not food or human labor, men and women work long hours, work hard with patience.

The peasants' houses are beautiful and old, their animals well cared for.
Along the coast of Brittany and the Vendee, men and women and children work side by side. Men repair at low tide, the fish nets colored light blue. The fishermen say "fish and nobility." On the flat lands you see little mounds of salt taken from the ocean by imprisoning waters in shallow pools for reevaporation.

Once "La Gabelle," a heavy tax on salt, dressed the mistresses of French kings and made life easy for three lucky classes, royalty, clergy and nobility. It was death to the peasant to escape "La Gabelle" by taking his salt from the ocean.

Conditions are better now. The kings are sleeping in St. Denis, the

LEARN FROM ELBERT GARY'S LIFE.

The death of Judge Elbert Gary attracted attention to one of America's most picturesque figures. He drew attention to another one of those remarkable careers so characteristic of America. From a poor boy working for a few dollars a week to a multi-millionaire and to the head of probably the largest corporation in the world.

Judge Gary never discovered anything new. In his resume of the elements of character, we are struck by his emphasis upon the old-fashioned virtues. About all the virtues there are are old-fashioned. There has never been discovered any substitute that was workable for being honest and upright.

Gary's ten commandments of success which he formulated for a man with a reasonably healthy constitution and average mentality, are as follows:

1. Be honest, truthful, sincere and serious. Being slippery and tricky may gain you temporary advantage but in the long run it will be your undoing.

2. Be considerate of others. Don't try to get ahead by pulling somebody else down. The more progress you make the less you will want to take advantage of others.

3. Guard your health, both morally and physically. The main thing to rely upon in a crisis or an emergency is being in fit condition.

4. Get an education. Know the fundamentals, such as arithmetic, spelling, grammar, geography and history. Also get all the technical education you can.

5. No matter how much natural ability you have, it must be stimulated by persistent efforts to improve the mind and store it with useful incalculable benefits.

6. Have clean habits of life and select the right companions. You should know men of experience and higher rank than yourself. Nothing saps character like undesirable companions who are only bent on self-indulgence rather than self-improvement.

7. Be ambitious honorably and back this ambition up with energy, persistence and thoughtfulness. "I have had to fight steadily against laziness all my life," he says.

8. Be loyal to employers, friends and country. A reputation for loyalty induces people to give you positions of trust and responsibility.

9. Cultivate stability. Don't be a rolling stone.

10. Most important of all: Observe the Golden Rule. This gets you further in the long run than any other maxim of life.

lords and ladies wanted the pleasure of riding over those crops to kill the

But in every French family there

To Build and Maintain The Roadbed Great trains rushing over tracks and bridges take their toll in wear and tear—rivets and bolts work loose, materials of all kinds, steel, iron and wood, are affected by weather conditions. Constant vigilance is necessary to keep the roadbed safe and comfortable. 12,400 men are kept regularly employed in maintaining the Louisville & Nashville roadway, which requires an annual expenditure of more than $22,000,000.

There are many men employed in the various departments of American railroads who never come in contact with the public, but whose work is of vital importance to the successful operation of the finest transportation system on the face of the globe.

Interpretation of that section of the State Constitution which says that "separate districts shall be made for the schools of the white and colored races," and the rights of Chinese in this country under the Burlingame treaty are the main points on which the supreme court of the United States will be called upon to decide two cases originating in the delta section of the state from the exclusion of Chinese children from white schools. One of these cases was appealed from a decision of the Mississippi supreme court, rendered by Judge Ethridge to the effect that the word "white" as used in the Constitution means the Caucasian race only. The second decision rendered more recently by Judge McGowan in reversal of that of the lower court, follows the decision of Judge Ethridge as to interpretation of the language of the state constitution with regard to races; but is complicated by the fact that certain federal questions are raised, the real purpose being to test the constitutionality of the state law with reference to the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution.

When the legislature meets in January, women's organizations of the state will co-operate with the state plant board in securing passage of a law providing for state-wide eradication of the Argentine ant, which has become not merely a nuisance in Mississippi, but also the source of economic loss since they harbor plant enemies and become indirectly the cause of the loss of valuable trees and shrubs.

Some towns in the state have set aside the money necessary to purchase supplies and furnish the labor of placing the poison, the local representative or the plant board, or one sent from the A. & M. college, making the survey and directing the work free of charge. Some, however, have failed to find authorization for such appropriation, or have made it for only one year, whereas, several successive years are usually necessary to make the eradication complete, and prevent spread of the infestation to other localities.

Re-election of all state officers choice of Winona as next year's meeting place, resolutions asking the legislature to appropriate at least $1.00 a day for veterans during their lives and the same sum to their widows, resolutions asking the removal of the body of Gov. J. J. Pettus from Arkansas to Mississippi, and a motion placing the veterans on record as opposing the teaching of Muzzie's history in the State on the grounds of its being unfair to Jefferson Davis, where the matters of outstanding importance at the three-day convention of the Mississippi camp of Confederate veterans.

Repeal of the absent voter law on the grounds that the privilege is flagrantly abused was advocated by the Chancery Clerks of the State at the annual convention of the association at Meridian last week. T. Q. Brames, of Jasper county; H. K. Rouse, of Pearl River county, and A. G. Favre, of Hancock were elected president, vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. Natchez was selected as the meeting place for 1928.

Another case in the supreme court of the United States brought Mississippi into the limelight this week—the case of the City Council of Jackson against Millsaps college on the right of the city to tax two office buildings, which, it is contended by the defendants, are part of its endowment fund, and under its charter, exempt from taxation. The city admits the exemption of the endowment fund, but claims that the buildings are real estate, and as such do not come under the exemption.

An enterprise worthy of duplication by every county of the state received its charter this week from the office of the secretary of state—a non profit loan corporation with a revolving fund of $30,000 for the purchase of poultry, cattle, hogs, sheep and goats for resale without profit to persons entering the poultry, dairy, and livestock industries or improving their breeds; and to lend money at a low rate of interest for farm improvements such as fences, sheds and stables. The corporation is called the Grenada County Farm Development Company.

"How best can I trade in my present car for a new car?"

WHEN you are ready to trade in your present car for a new car, you naturally want full value for your present car. But most of all you want full new car value.

It will therefore pay you to consider varying trade-in allowance offers in the light of these basic facts:

- 1 Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value: i.e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 2 Your present car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 3 The largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.
- 4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 5 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your present car.
- 6 Remember that you are making a purchase—not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply using your present car as a credit against the new car's purchase price.

ROCKACHAWS HOLD CALVARY TROOP TO 7-0 SCORE SUNDAY

Bill Smith, ex-Loyola star, brought over his Cavalry Troop No. 100 last Sunday and in a pretty good game, defeated the new 1927 Rockachaws by a score of 7 to 0.

The game goes down on the records as a defeat for the Stanislaus team, but an asterisk or some other notable mark should be attached to these same records and on the margin below these words should show prominently: "Moral victory for Rockachaws." For such it was by a big and healthy margin.

The team that Bill Smith journeyed over with to engage the college boys was composed of players upon whose features the word "experience" showed as prominently as though it was printed thereon. These huskies for the most part have been slinging the horse-hoed oval ever since the days that Toca, Fabacher, Cotton and a few others were still hanging onto rubber nipples.

"Duce" Dominguez, who was once a Loyola "Find" at Quarter, a man over whom the big time papers went into convulsion fits, and touted as one of the best little grid workers ever, was in the line-up for these same Cavalry lads. Others of well known ability also wore the yellow jackets, but there was no fireworks, no blare of bugles or ruffle of drums, they simply got away with a measly touchdown and extra point, a score of seven in the first few minutes of the initial period, thereafter it was a row of eggs.

Forster Commagere's fighters were there all the time, they fought at every tick of the clock, valiant little guys like Cotton and Toca hurled themselves into every play as though composed of T. N. L. they hit the biggest of them. That red line held back after back and made their opponents respect them. Aye, they were there with the spirit of Stanislaus, and before many games will show how rapid they are improving as grid warriors.

The Rocks made a determined threat in the second quarter when after a couple of good runs by Glover and Genard they got the ball on the enemy's five-yard line. It seemed that a score was inevitable, but the Troopers held and hopes were glimmering when on the fourth down Glover tried a pass and it was knocked down.

The third quarter found the Troopers, led by Dominguez and Nungesser, skirting the ends for gains. They were going on their way when Referee Gaddy took notice of something and back they went for fifteen yards on penalty, undaunted they pressed on and soon got into dangerous territory, then the Rocks held and turned the tide back at the eleven-yard line.

An intercepted pass on the Rocks' twenty-yard line looked like another score was forthcoming. The Troopers went off tackle for five yards on two plays but the final gun saved the day.

The Rockachaws are showing their improvement right along and Coach Commagere is satisfied that his boys will have a lot to their credit before the present season closes, and next year will be a bunch of winners as old Stanislaus is accustomed to have.

The visitors played a clean brand of ball all through and the excellent coaching of Bill Smith, former Loyola captain, showed to advantage. Leger and Blaize did good line work for the losers, while Woodruff and Adams were big factors in 100 A. C.'s victory.

COMMENT ON SPORTS

The retirement of Ban Johnson, as President of the American League, after serving in that position for twenty-seven years is an event of note. While Ban has not enjoyed great success in his opposition to Judge Landis within recent years, he, nevertheless, deserves considerable credit for the success of the American League and has done much to make it successful.

News from Buenos Aires where Alexander Alekhine, the Russian challenger, is playing Jose R. Capablanca, the Cuban, champion chess player of the world, indicates that the match will be very close with the probability that it will result in a new champion. The Russian won the first games and then Capablanca won two games, while seven were drawn. At this stage, Alekhine won two straight games and went into the lead.

Chess players will understand the difficulty of the games when they read that the champion took one hour and forty-five minutes to make one move in the eleventh game and the Russian required two hours and ten minutes, although at other times, the moves were fairly rapid.

One of the outstanding football games of last week was the Navy and Notre Dame contest in Baltimore. This was interesting because later the team from Indiana will play the Army, thus affording a line-up on the two service teams before they have to settle their annual argument.

The Yankee regulars received checks of $5,702.00, each as their share on the World Series money. The Pirates drew $3,994.41 each.

The four-game victory of the Yankees, entailing a loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars on the club owners, is a good thing for the reputation of the game and to honesty. While most fans are satisfied on this score, there are doubtful cynics on the outside who can tell you every year that the series is sure to go the full seven games because "it has been fixed."

Valuable By-Product.

"Has putting in that lunch counter helped your business?" asked Jones of the druggist.

"Well, it has about tripled the sale of indigestion tablets," he replied. Pathfinder.

WORK AND PLAY AT S. J. A.

Seeing the days flit by so swiftly and precious time which might have proven much more enjoyable if only those wondrous "adornings" wearing their fingers the Seniors held a consultation last week in order to decide several matters concerning their class emblem.

To appreciate the theme of the much controverted questions which were put before the meeting of the only two who have the honor (or torture—take it as you will) of being Seniors this year, imagine yourself walking through country meadows on a glorious spring day. The fields are covered with clover which joyously bob their heads at you as you go by. Occasionally you catch a glimpse of a four-leafed variety, proud to be so distinguished from the rest of its fellow creatures.

Is a secret out? Yes, clover is the flower, but remember it is surrounded by four tender green petals which delight the eye. And why have we chosen such an insignificant little flower? Well, we are not preachers of moral, but we do believe that much beauty, grace and loveliness can be found in the ordinary and commonplace things of life. To our minds good is to be found in everything if only the effort is made to ignore the worthless things of life and strive after the higher.

Our colors, too, are warm reminders of spring, with its abundant green foliage, and the silver line which effectively marks the horizon. Spring then is a source of promise, let us hope that in its beauty and grace it will relinquish some of its stores of virtue, and let it fall—not with too great a shock, however, on to the heads of the Seniors of S. J. A.

Literary Dramatic Club.

Since the opening of school the girls of the high school had been impatiently awaiting the first meeting of their Literary Dramatic Club, so anxious were they to start their organization of theirs on the high road of success. At last their wish was gratified and the meeting held last Tuesday.

Election of officers was the first business to be attended to and resulted as follows:

President—Sallie Mae Atkinson.
Secretary—Lois Hobbs.
Treasurer—Maie Allingham.

It was decided that besides the officers above named each class should select a representative who is to take charge of her division, and plan the programs with which each class in turn will be expected to entertain the club at its different meetings.

The Seniors of '28 are such a unit that they have decided to represent their class jointly. Judith Maufrey was chosen to represent the Seniors, Gayle Patton, the Sophomores, and Lucia Lince, the Freshmen.

The meetings are to be held on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month. Something of literary interest in the form of papers, sketches or dramatics will be given at each meeting. The girls seemed most enthusiastic about their club and are determined to win fame for the club.
